THEATRICAL COMMENT

O greatly pleased are the new owners of the Crescent Theatre with the business being done at the little Harlem house that plans are being made to replace the 299-seat theatre with one which will accommodate 1,500 persons at one time. Manager Benjamin Nibur stated to THE AGE that the new house will be modern in every particular, and will consist of two floors. The work of rebuilding will be started in the near future, and when completed the theatre will be one of the best euipped in the

In connection with the theatre will be a large rathskeller and lodge rooms. It is estimated that $200,000 will be expended in rebuilding.

Manager Nibur, in speaking of the proposed new house made the following statement to the dramatic editor of THE

The present owners of the Crescent Theatre have been engaged in business in Harlem for over ten years and have seen that section of the city grow in population to its present size. Most of our trade has been with the colored residents, and we believe that those with whom we have had business dealings in the past enjoy our confidence and respect. The new management fully appreclates the need of a larger theatre in West 135th street, and after three weeks of experiment-ing a decision has been reached to make the Crescent Theatre a fifteen-hundred seat house. When the new theatre is opened all the help will be colored, and the best of order will be maintained, as it is our aim to cater to the better class of colored people at all times. It is our desire to secure the good will of the residents of Harlem, and if they will aid us we will give them a theatre of which they will Announcement as to when the work rebuilding will begin will be given in these columns at a near date.

Since last Thursday Mrs. Lottie Williams, wife of Bert A. Williams, the comedian, has been giving some study predestination as a religion and fatalism as a subject for philosophical research, Mrs. Williams has been the principal in several incidents during the past four or five years, and even her friends who are conversant with the circumstances involved are wondering if the irony of fate played a prominent part. But while the comedian's wife and her friends are spending much time trying to solve the problem, the fact remains that for the past five years every time Mrs. Williams has made preparations to leave New York for Chicago something unexpected has hap-

As Mrs. Williams had contemplated leaving last Saturday she was congratulating herself that she had eluded Mr. Jinx until Thursday afternoon, when she was overtaken and tagged. So confident that she was going to reach the Windy City this time without being caught by Jinx that she went about without crossing her fingers. So Thursday afternoon while going to the bank she met with a mishap and was unable to depart for Chicago until Monday afternoon.

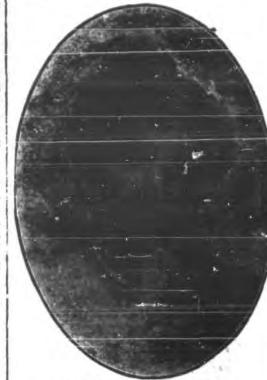

Mrs. Williams usually meets with an accident or becomes ill a few days before she departs for Chicago and this year was no exception to the rule. Before leaving the city she and her husband thought it best to make a deposit in their bank, and Mrs. Williams boarded a Sixth avenue L train Thursday afternoon on this mission. Upon descending the stairs at the L station at Thirty-third street and Sixth avenue, a man who was walking in the rear of Mrs. Williams accidently stepped on her dress, throwing her on her face. She fell a short distance before picked up in a dazed condition.

When she regained consciousness she was informed that her handbag, which contained a large sum of money, was safe, and upon learning her identity she was put in a cab and sent home. Dr. Gustavus Henderson was summoned and he dressed the wounds, which consisted of cuts and bruises on Mrs. Williams' face and limbs. A year ago when Mrs. Williams was preparing to leave for Chicago to join her husband, who was then appearing and Somers, open over the Loew Cirwith the "Follies of 1910," she fell and injured herself while descending the stairway at Grand Central Palace. MAKES TEST CASE.

John Guy, a colored butler of Evanston, Ill., has instituted civil and criminal proceedings against Charles E. New, manager of the Evanston Theatre, for denying him a seat on the first floor. Evanston, which is suburb of Chicago, has a new theatre which was opened several days ago. It was made public that the colored patrons would be "Jim Crowed" and not permitted on the first floor, but colored people of that section generally take advantage of the laws against discrimination. Mr. Guy is suing under the follow-

"All persons within the jurisdiction of the State of Illinois shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, restaurants, eating houses, hotels, soda fountains, saloons, barber shops, baths, theatres, skating rinks, concerts, cafes, bicycle races, elevators, ice cream parlors, railroads, omnibuses, stages, street cars, boats, funrela hearses, and public conveyances on land and water. and all other places of public accom to the conditions and limitations estab-lished by law and applicable to all

DANDY DIXIE MINSTRELS.

Manager H. D. Collins of Voelckel's Dandy Dixie Minstrels writes that the company opened at Annapolis, Md., last Friday evening to a goodly sized audience that showed its appreciation of the work done by the minstrels as the performance progressed. The first part represents Maxim's, a scene from "The Merry Widow," and the setting is brilliantly lighted. The semi-circle is made up of twenty-eight singers and end men. James Crosby, "Chicken" Jones, Walter Long and George Taylor, principal and men, deserve special mention. All took several encores. The G. Payne, also made good. Mr. Payne was heartily applauded in his tenor solo, "My Hero." In the olio, which Manager Collins says is one of the best ever, are John Prampin, juggler; James Crosby, Arthur Brooks, Manual Felain and his educated bear; Allie Johnson, wire artist, and Dixon and White, song and dance artists. "Frolics on the Levee" is the title of the after piece, one of the features being John Owens and the dancing lassies. The production was staged by Jerry as well as Rod McMahon these days, and they have a right to be, for the players from Olympic Field met and conquered both the American Giants and the Cuban Stars before a large crowd at American League Park Labor Day. Fully 12,000 fans witnessed the doubleheader, and the two games were well worth seeing. The Lincolns defeated the American Giants in the first game by the score of 6 to 4, and routed the Cuban Stars in an exciting contest, 6 to 5.

In the first game Wickware and Danny McClelland were the opposing pitchers, and the latter had the better of the argument. Three errors were couple of poor throws helped to defeat the men from the Windy City. In the second contest Redding was in good form and finally got even with the Stars, an ambition he has been trying to realize all season, even when he was on the Philadelphia Giants. Redding also did some timely batting, making a triple which scored Gordon and Wright in the ninth.

The Lincoln Giants were on more familiar terms with Mendez Monday, and he retired to the bench after five innings and was succeeded by Maderos.
